RPV Voter Alert

Vote No RPV Measure C – March 8th

PVP Watch has long opposed RPV Measure C as we believe the Initiative is poorly crafted and does not have adequate safeguards to protect RPV residents. This campaign has reached new lows even for the present RPV Council and their cronies. They have used RPV taxpayer funds to pay for their slanted political messages and printed materials. And they say we should trust them. Why.....

Starting Sunday evening were the anticipated "robo" calls with one time Council Member Ann Shaw being the spokesperson. That the "robo" calls were more creativity than fact was certainly not unanticipated. It is too bad that Ms. Shaw did not report that when RPV was founded, she was one of some 200 people, with some 20 committees that took two years to write a General Plan that has stood for over 35 years only to now have a five (5) member Council and some of their friends decide to change our form of government with virtually no public input.

A recent interesting development is the attached email message from current RPV Mayor Tom Long on March 2nd. While some have become accustomed to his unfounded allegations about PVP Watch and others, it seems this time he has more than met his match in casting aspersions against RPV resident Sharon Yarber and her attorney Carl (Tony) Capozzola. The second attachment is Mr. Capozzola's response to Tom Long's March 2nd assertions.

Tony Capozzola has a 40-year legal career as both a prosecutor and defense attorney. Tony and Judy Capozzola and their five children are long time Peninsula residents. Tony Capozzola has challenged Tom Long with a $50,000 wager with the loser's portion going to RPV. Will Tom Long accept the challenge? It will be of further interest to see if and what the outcome of this challenge will be?

Well - with my busy schedule I had not read the PVP watch email newsletter sitting in my inbox yet but after receiving this city government diatribe I went right in and opened that attachment up to see what all the fuss is about. The diatribe also sealed my vote against C.

I don't want to see our local politics stoop into such pettiness. I also did not appreciate the fact that the article in this week's city newsletter thingy is a hard push FOR the Measure, telling us how great it is.Forgive my skepticism. Where is the opposing view usually presented in an article about a controversial proposed legal Measure to fundamentally change city government which is going to be voted on in a week? I showed it to my wife and we just laughed. We both have 3/8/11 marked on our calendars.

Plus - do you guys listen to the news? The blatant organized crime that is Bell and Vernon (and CA's pathetic and hostile government in general) indicate that this is simply a bad time for charter city votes. Trust us? Tone deaf much? March ballot to capitalize on limited turnout? Not sure I like that. Sorry, this doesn't pass.

- WE ARE DEFINITELY VOTING "NO" FOR MEASURE C....

GOOD PLEASE CAMPAIGN TO VOTE NO FOR MEASURE C. THERE IS ENOUGH POLITICAL ABUSE AROUND; LET US NOT ADD TO IT.
